Gary,

I understand your statement now. I suppose it would be helpful to have a 4-Joseph descendant test. It does seem plausible to me from the information you have that Richard may be the unborn child. Are there no 4-Joseph descendants available?
No doubt John Nation was Joseph's brother-in-law as he states in his will. However, any further comment regarding this intricate Nation/Robins relationship would only be speculative on my part.

Sara:

To my knowledge - nobody that has had their DNA tested claims descent from 4-Joseph. The closest that we have to date is a descendent of Richard Robins who, (along with Christopher Nation) signed the will of Joseph Robins of Rowan County of NC. We have not proved this Richards relationship to Joseph, but surely it exists. For him to witness the will of Joseph Robins, he must have had some sort of vested interest. His DNA matches mine. You will remember that in this will Joseph refers to John Nation as his brother in law. Now did he do so because John Nation was the brother of his wife Eleanor, or because John Nation was the husband of his sister Bethia, or both?
