PUBLIC LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

BY AUTHORITY.

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas a convention between the United States of America and her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, was concluded and signed at London, on the fifth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, which convention is word for word, as follows:

The United States of America and her Majesty, the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, desiring to promote the friendly intercourse which subsists between their respective citizens and subjects, by placing the communication between the United States and the British Queen's dominions and those of her Britannic Majesty upon a more liberal and advantageous footing, have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose, and have named as their respective plenipotentiaries, that is to say:

The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, George Bancroft, a citizen of the United States, their envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to her Britannic Majesty;

And her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honorable James, Baron Wenlock, a peer of Ireland, a member of her Britannic Majesty's most honorable Privy Council, and her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

There shall be charged upon all letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, conveyed either by the United States or by British packets between a port in the United States and a port in the United Kingdom, single postage only, whether such letters be conveyed by the public packets or by private ships, or the country by whom the packet conveying the letters is furnished.

ARTICLE II.

There shall be charged by the Post Office of the United Kingdom, upon all letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, carried in the United Kingdom, and forward to the United States, single postage only, and the same rate shall be paid in the United Kingdom, whether such letters shall be conveyed by British or by United States packets, on inland postage in the United States.

ARTICLE III.

There shall be charged by the Post Office of the United States, upon all letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, carried in the United States, and forward to the United Kingdom, single postage only, and the same rate shall be paid in the United States, whether such letters shall be conveyed by British or by United States packets, on inland postage in the United Kingdom.

ARTICLE IV.

The United States Government engages to forward from the United States to the United Kingdom, at the rate of single postage only, all letters and newspapers which may be forwarded from the United Kingdom to the United States, or to any British colony, or to any foreign country, and from any British colony or foreign country to the United States, whether such letters and newspapers be conveyed by the United States packets or by private ships.

ARTICLE V.

The United Kingdom engages to forward to the United States, at the rate of single postage only, all letters and newspapers which may be forwarded from the United States to the United Kingdom, or to any British colony, or to any foreign country, and from any British colony or foreign country to the United States, whether such letters and newspapers be conveyed by the British packets or by private ships.

ARTICLE VI.

The United States further engage to guard to the United Kingdom the transit in closed mails, through the United States, of all correspondence which may be sent from any part of the United Kingdom to any part of the British North American provinces, or to any foreign country, or from any British colony or foreign country to any part of the United Kingdom, and to forward the same by the most expeditious route which they employ for the mails of the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The United States further engage to guard to the United Kingdom the transit in closed mails, through the United States, of all correspondence which may be sent from any part of the British North American provinces, or from any foreign country, or from any British colony to any part of the United States, and to forward the same by the most expeditious route which they employ for the mails of the United States.

ARTICLE VIII.

Her Britannic Majesty engages, on her part, to grant to the United States, through the United Kingdom, the transit in closed mails, through the British North American provinces, of all correspondence which may be sent from any part of the United States to any part of the British North American provinces, or to any foreign country, or from any foreign country or British colony to any part of the United States, and to forward the same by the most expeditious route which they employ for the mails of the United Kingdom.

ARTICLE IX.

Her Britannic Majesty engages, on her part, to grant to the United States, through the United Kingdom, the transit in closed mails, through the British North American provinces, of all correspondence which may be sent from any part of the United States to any foreign country, or from any foreign country to any part of the United States, whether such correspondence be conveyed by the British packets or by private ships.

ARTICLE X.

The United States and her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom, in consideration of the reciprocal advantages secured by the present convention, hereby relinquish in favor of each other all claims to compensation for the services of their respective packets.

ARTICLE XI.

The present convention shall be ratified by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and by her Britannic Majesty; and the ratifications shall be exchanged in London within six months from the date hereof. It shall come into operation on the first day of January, 1849, or as soon thereafter as the necessary arrangements for the purpose can be completed.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at London the fifteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight.

[L. S.] PALMERSTON.

And whereas the said convention has been duly ratified on both parts, and the respective ratifications of the same were exchanged at London, on the 28th day of January last, by the Honorable Richard Pakenham, Her Britannic Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, and the Honorable Henry John Temple, Viscount Palmerston, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign affairs, on the part of their respective governments:

Now, therefore, be it known that I, JAMES K. POLK, President of the United States of America, have caused the said convention to be made public to the end that the same and every clause and article thereof may be observed and performed with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this fifteenth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, and of the independent of the United States the seventy-second.

JAMES K. POLK.

By the President:
JAMES BUCHANAN, Secretary of State.

From the Journal.

Mr. Editor—I see, in your paper of the 13th, my name announced as a candidate for Auditor of State. I am a Democrat. While I feel grateful for the confidence expressed, yet, I must be permitted to say, that no amount of solicitation will induce me to engage in the active duties of the time. I must decline being a candidate.

DIED.

On the 19th of February, at Stonetown, Jane Maxwell Cole, daughter daughter of J. Cole, Esq., of that place.

CANDIDATES.

☞We are requested to announce the name of J. B. DUNLAP as a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Messrs. Editors—Please announce the name of WILLIAM LEAKE, as a candidate for the office of Auditor of State, subject to the decision of the democratic convention.

☞We are requested to announce the name of JOHN S. SPANN, as a candidate for the office of County Clerk.

Despair not though your Physicians and Friends give you up to Die!

The undersigned cured himself of Consumption after the above time is so entirely that I was taken with a pain in my side and breast with a distressing cough, which soon grew worse and grew rapidly worse. Although I had in attendance three physicians, who gave me medicine, and said they did all they could for me, but I continued to grow worse, and my friends considered that I could not live more than a day longer. All my friends and neighbors came to see me, supposing me entirely beyond the reach of medicine.

My brother at this meeting, hearing of the astonishing cures made by Dr. Rogers Lozenges and Tar, sent to Chillicothe, Ohio, for a supply, and by persons the above medicine, and, strange to tell, before I had used half a bottle, my cough was entirely broken up, and in two weeks I was able to attend to my business. I am now in good health.
