

temperate family;—used no tobacco nor intoxicants in any form whatever. They were great readers, and always found time for the reading of useful books. Naomi was an advocate of woman's suffrage, but did not live to realize her ardent desires. She was called to her final rest Jan. 3rd, 1892, aged seventy-seven years. Her husband died January 3rd, 1888, at the age of ninety-one.

---

Written by Sarah M. G. Hubbard, the daughter of J. R. P. Garrison, son of Major William Garrison, whose wife was Ose Roberts, daughter of Elizabeth Roberts, daughter of Sarah Park, daughter of Penelope Jewel, daughter of James Stout, the fifth son of Richard the first.

May 18, 1909.